Natalie's Note:

Happy Holidays!

My Holiday Newsletter Note is always my favorite to write to you. It affords me time to slow down, to reflect on our successes, and to express our gratitude for the outpouring of support that we have received from you, our children and their families, and our community.

As I reflect on 2015, I look back on another year of exciting growth at Providence House. Through your support, we were able to accomplish so much this past year, from serving the largest client population in our history and opening our new Wellness Nursery for children with medical conditions, to launching our first earned income venture and hosting guests from Crisis Nurseries across the U.S. who want to learn more about our unique service model at Providence House.

And while I am so proud to take some time to celebrate these accomplishments with you and look ahead to our 35th anniversary in 2016, it is the smallest things each day that truly represent the spirit of Providence House to me...

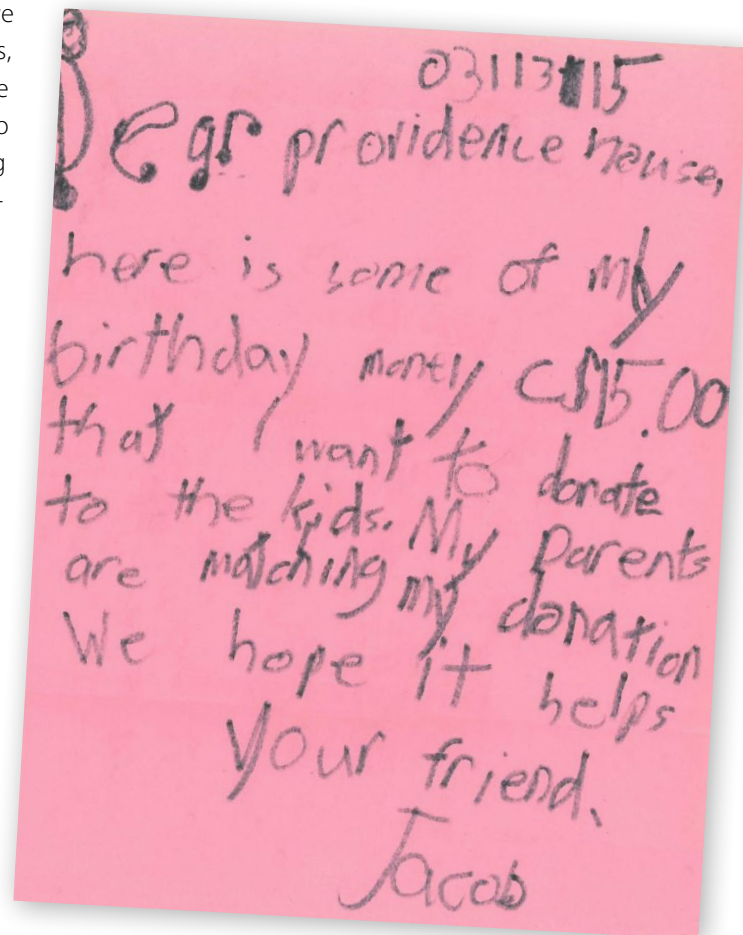

Like the sounds of giggles and silly songs from children who only days before were frightened and living in crisis. The arms of a child reaching for a hug - or grabbing you around the knees to give their own! The tears from our moms and children when they say goodbye to each other - followed soon after by squeals of joy when mommy comes to visit or take them home. The thank you notes, cards, and pictures from parents and children (like those on the cover) whose lives have been forever changed by Providence House.

And the gifts, cards, and letters that we receive daily from donors and supporters, like you, who believe so strongly in the work that we do. Your words lift us up and keep us going. And your gifts, big and small - from donors big and small - are saving lives and healing families every day.

Like a gift from our friend Jacob, who sent us this note with his birthday money...hoping it would help. Yes, Jacob. You did help. Every gift, in any amount - especially such a selfless one - makes a HUGE difference for our children.

This holiday season and into the New Year, please remember the children at Providence House by offering your gifts of support. Truly, every gift, every note, every message is cherished and remembered.

On behalf of your Providence House PHamily, I wish you a wonderful holiday season and a joyous New Year!

We are honored to partner with the following companies as they hold fast to their commitment to support the babies and children at Providence House:

The Providence House Annual Corporate Partner Program offers companies an opportunity to achieve their philanthropic goals and support our children and families in crisis. With a single annual gift, businesses are supporting our children while also receiving extraordinary marketing benefits and exclusive access to our special events throughout the year.
